

World Ozone Day 16th September, 2024

World Ozone Day, dedicated to the preservation of the ozone layer, is observed annually on September 16. The purpose of this observance is to raise awareness about ozone layer depletion and to explore possible solutions for its preservation. To instill a sense of social responsibility in students, the college celebrated World Ozone Day on September 16, 2024, under the guidance of the Science Faculty, which includes Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Botany, Zoology, and Computer Science.

The celebration featured a variety of activities, including a poster-making competition, a slogan-writing contest, presentations, and a quiz. Approximately 45 students participated with great enthusiasm, showcasing their innovative ideas through posters, slogans, and presentations.
